IN THE CEAIMS:

Amended Claims

35. (Amended) A computer-implemented method for enabling access to one or more data sources or targets in a computer system, comprising:

determining one or more data sources or targets connected to the computer; automatically generating one or more URLs for each of the data sources or targets; wherein each of the URLs is useable for accessing data from the respective data source or to the respective data target.